Natural gas signup starts PG&E opens Valley office

Carmel Valley residents received confirmation of natural gas service this week from PG&E, provided a required 395 persons sign up for the service within the next six months.

Carmel Manager Claude Hicks told The Outlook that they had several signups immediately.

In explanation of the rate schedule which accompanied the letters sent to Carmel Valleyites, Hicks said the "therm" used as a rate unit was 100,000 B.T.U. and the minimum charge would be $2.31 per month even if no gas were used.

We asked for an estimate for an average three bedroom, two bath house with gas hot water heater and gas heat. Mr. Hicks gave us a month by month breakdown from their records. This was from a similar rate district to the Valley; however, we felt June through September might be lower than this one since our summer temperatures go higher than the coastal areas. However, February and March would be closer to January.

Festival of Grape to be May 28

The traditional Festival of the Grape will be held this year on Sunday, May 28, at Rancho del Monte Country Club from 3-5.

The yearly event, put on by the board of the CV Community Center, is traditionally a wine tasting benefit, with cheeses and bread to snack on, while socializing in the sunny afternoon. Board members feel they can guarantee sunshine on that Sunday, since the Farmer's Almanac says the rain will cease on the 27th.

The same fine winery that has provided the libations for the past two years will again host the festival.

Tickets at $1.75 are available at the General Store, from Community Center Board members or at the gate.

Hicks added that Valleyites could figure that natural gas bills would run from half to two thirds of their bottled gas charges.

An office has been set up in Carmel Valley Village where applications may be made and questions will be answered. It is located next to the Village Cafe in the Valley Shopping Center, across from Marlinde's studio. The telephone is 659-2339 and hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays.

395 applicants will be needed before construction is begun; however, as soon as this number has been reached, work will commence on the 16 1/2 mile pipeline system.

Customers will be required to enter into a three-year contract for service and deposit a $50 performance bond which would be returned as soon as the service is established.

Cost of the service pipe extensions from the main to the house will depend on the number of gas appliances in use. A hot water heater, gas heat and a gas stove will fulfill the requirements of up to 50 feet from the property line to the house at no expense. Additional footage would be $1.20 per foot.

For those who have been on bottle gas, changes in jets and some possible changes in piping will be necessary for existing appliances.

An average monthly cost for 3 BR house

CVPOA to conduct road poll

Everyone in Carmel Valley will be polled to determine the local preference on whether to re-establish the four lane road planlines or not.

The decision to poll was voted as a public service by the board of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association at last week's meeting.

Polling will be done as a preliminary to the CVPOA general membership meeting to be held May 25 at the Community Center.

In order to establish planlines for the lower Valley Road, to the Farm Center this year, the approval of the Valley must be known in time to get it on the budget before July, according to road commissioner Bruce McClain.

The second set of planlines would take in the stretch from Farm Center to Los Laureles Grade and the third would be from the grade to Esquiline Road, just beyond the Village.

The poll will be conducted by mail and will include the entire Valley, not just CVPOA members as in the past.

Postmaster Sam Brandt named as Fiesta chairman—meeting to be held Friday

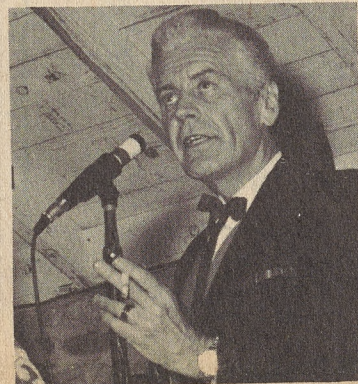

Postmaster Sam Brandt has consented to be General Chairman of the annual Carmel Valley Fiesta de los Amigos at the invitation of the Speakeading Committee for the event proposed for the weekend of Sept. 2 and 3 (Labor Day).

Chairman Brandt will preside Friday at a meeting of the Fiesta Board of Directors which was formed under the guidance of Attorney Rex Pryer at an earlier meeting. It will follow a noon luncheon at Rippling River Resort.

The Fiesta board is made up of an authorized member from each Valley organization wishing to participate who will attend planning meetings and be chairman of his group's Fiesta activity. All proceeds of the event will go to support Valley youth activities.

To date board members include Carl J. Maier for the Lions Club; Richard McKenzie, CV Horsemen; Ruth Allaire, Sodality; Chip Collins, CV Volunteer Firemen; Ken Van Hagen, Little League; Elizabeth Hoisington, Women's Club; Lois Deal, CVYO; Barbara Belleci, CV Volunteer Firemen's Auxiliary; Ned Skilling, Kiwanis Club.

SAM BRANDT

Other groups are expected to send representatives to Friday's meeting and any willing worker, whether or not affiliated with a group, will be warmly welcomed. Call for luncheon reservations.

Mr. Brandt served as Master of Ceremonies for the first Fiesta held in the Village 15 years ago and last year's Fiesta which was held at Holman's Guest Ranch. This year Del Fino Pl. will be roped off to accommodate booths all day Saturday and a street dance in the evening.

A horse show, sponsored by the Trail and Saddle Club and a Little League ball game are scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 2 and will be billed as part of the celebration.

Open play day to be held at Trail and Saddle Club grounds

The 1967 Award Series horse shows of the Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club will get under way this week with an open play day on Sunday, May 14, at the club grounds on East Garzas Road. This event will serve as an introduction to the program for the Award Series of five shows which will follow and will be open to everyone.

It will begin at 10 a.m. with a safety inspection, then some form of group instruction and continue in the afternoon with a horsemanship event and gymkhana events. Suitable prizes will be awarded but points will not count for the Award Series.

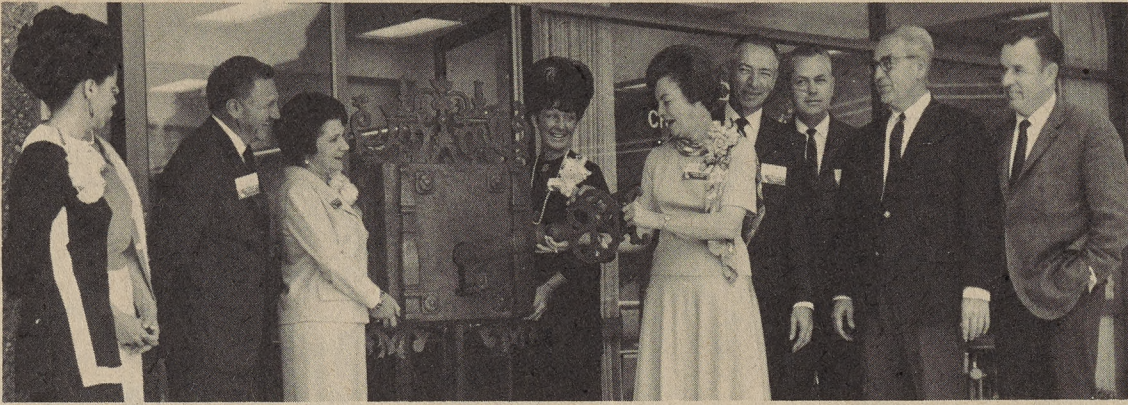

Beginning on Sunday, May 28, and continuing each two weeks thereafter, the regular Award Series shows will be held. Trail and Saddle Club members will compete for ribbons for the day and cumulative points for the series, with awards at the final horse show based on total points earned.

This series will feature group instruction by a professional instructor, events for adults and separate awards for competition in performance classes and gymkhana events. Guests will participate on a single entry basis without accumulating points for the series awards.

The idea of a series of Play Day type horse shows for club juniors and their guests originated three years ago. It provided local youngsters with regular horse shows in the Valley where they could compete for prizes.

The original idea was to keep this competition on the basis of ability of the rider rather than of high priced horses, fine equipment, etc. This concept remains in this year's series. However, by request of the juniors themselves there has been increasing emphasis on appearance, good grooming of the horse, neatness and cleanliness of the rider, and safe equipment, along with the horsemanship events. One of the features of the Award Series has been the safety inspection before each show and the stressing of safe riding habits.

OVER 1,000 PERSONS visited the new Crocker-Citizens Bank open house on Saturday at Carmel Valley Shopping Center. Mrs. Ramona Weer, manager (center), had quite a task getting

Booth increases Scholarship Fund

Carmel High's Permanent Scholarship Fund will be richer from the net profit of about 2,000 hot dogs sold at its stand at the Laguna Seca races last weekend.

Expectations are that the Permanent Scholarship Fund will be boosted by more than the $450 netted last year for the cause, at the auto race booth.

John Graham, school counselor, was in charge of the booth Friday; Lewis Di Stefano, math teacher, Saturday, and Principal Warren Edwards Sunday.

"The Laguna Seca races are the main way of raising money for the Permanent Scholarship Fund," Edwards explained, "but we are always glad to receive special gifts from anyone who wants to help."

The Permanent Scholarship Fund was established about five years ago as a permanent, growing endowment, whose interest, which was about $150 last year, is used for scholarships. The fund is directed by three trustees, Graham and Di Stefano and Lloyd Miller, another teacher. Awarding scholarships from the interest is a committee of six teachers, two parents and five students.

400 turn out for C V Little League opening

By S.N. TREVINO

Saturday's bright skies and warm weather brought out an enthusiastic crowd of some 400 for the inaugural of Casey Park on Paso Hondo, new home of the Carmel Valley Little League.

After the invocation by the Rev. Burkert Cree of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula, League President Roger Sherman introduced Carl Sandman, district representative of the Little League, CWO Robert Young of the Monterey Naval Reserve SeaBees, and representatives of the team sponsors: Chief Chip Collins, Volunteer Fire Department; Cmdr. Bill Stowers, Lions Club (whose donkey baseball game with the fire department last year netted the League $500); A.W. Elkinton, Men's Group, Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula; Will Fay, Will's Fargo Restaurant; and Mrs. Arthur Dresser of the Carmel Valley Women's Club (which contributed over $500 to the League from last year's Fiesta de los Amigos).

TRIBUTE TO CASEY

Mr. Sherman paid special tribute to Alexander Casey, who made the land available for the new park and has been most generous in assisting in many ways. The crowd gave Mr. Casey a standing ovation.

The Mary Ocampo Pompon Jilletes and Twirl Club girls delighted the crowd with their specialty numbers. The teams, managers, and coaches lined up along the baselines for the national anthem and the raising of the flags by Bob Ray's Scout Troup 127. Mr. Casey threw out the first ball, chief umpire Larry Busick called "Play ball!" to open the doubleheader.

In the first game, Giants vs. Tigers, the Giants lost no time getting on the scoreboard. Mike Groves, first man up for the Giants, initiated the proceedings with a single (first hit in the new park). Before the inning was over the Giants had tallied 9 runs on 6 hits.

(first in the new park), doubles by Rod Deas and Larry Scholink, and a sharp double play Larry Scholink-Bob Harris (another first in the park), the Giants overpowered the Tigers in five full innings by a score of 17-5.

Mike Groves pitched, with Manny Mancebo relieving. Totals: Giants, 13 hits, 17 runs, 3 errors; Tigers, 8 hits, 5 runs, 10 errors.

The nightcap pitted the 1966 champion Red Sox against the runner-up Volunteers. It was a tight, well-played contest, each team getting only four hits. The mid-season form displayed by the boys was the more remarkable because practice was severely curtailed by the rain.

The game was highlighted by the brilliant pitching of Mike Feeney, who went all the way, striking out 15 batters and collecting two doubles into the bargain. Ted Hall clinched the victory with a stand-up triple in the third. Totals: Red Sox, 4 hits, 5 runs, 2 errors; Volunteers, 4 hits, 2 runs, 3 errors.

EDITORIAL

Melodious youth

Incident after incident of pot and LSD usage in schools, protest groups taking over academic meetings, demonstrations, sit-ins, feed-ins, and banana parties present a negative picture of the present day educational scene. These happenings always get a lot of press coverage because they are sensational... they are news! The fact that they are more in the minority than the majority gets lost because the good guys don't make news!

Last week a most positive picture was presented at Carmel High School. In this case it involved over 400 students and that's enough to make it very news-worthy!

We speak of the Spring Music Festival which combined the talents of schools in the CUSD. Youngsters converged on the high school gym, coming from Captain Cooper School in Big Sur, Tularcitos in Carmel Valley, Carmelo, River and Woods schools, Middle School and the high school to present a varied and exceptionally enjoyable program.

Parents might groan at the thought of being subjected to a lot of children blowing horns or raising their voices in "song" but none would have been bored or covered ears at Thursday's combined effort.

From the beginning band, to the elementary choruses, the results were melodious and amazing in their scope.

High point of the evening came when all of the instrumental groups and the choruses combined in a rousing version of "This Is My Country"... all the more spectacular when you know that they had not rehearsed en masse before appearing in front of the assembled audience.

We have a most unusual generation... they sang their message well.

PERSPECTIVE

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Outlook:

As a Carmel Valley "landowner" now — my heart is really there and I hope to make it physical, too, by June. I was concerned by your report of the lag in contributions to the Community Center. Please pass along my check to the proper person. Although my own children will be past the age to use the Center, one of these years I will have grandchildren there and we will need it!

"The Outlook" has kept us in touch — we are indeed looking forward to the time we will be having local delivery and seeing all our friends.

Sincerely,
Mabel Craig
Hanover, Calif.

Editor, The Outlook:

I am presently traveling with the musical explosion, "Up With People, Sing Out '67." We are now in Panama at the invitation of the president.

I thought since you are my newspaper, you might like to hear from me and what I'm doing.

I am having a fabulous time... the people of this country are looking for an answer and I feel we can work together to create unity between our countries.

I am enclosing a newsletter which will be released in all of the major cities of the United States. I would like you to print this so the people in the Valley will know what is going on.

If you like I can send you news once a month on "Up With People."

Sincerely,
Ariane Bowman

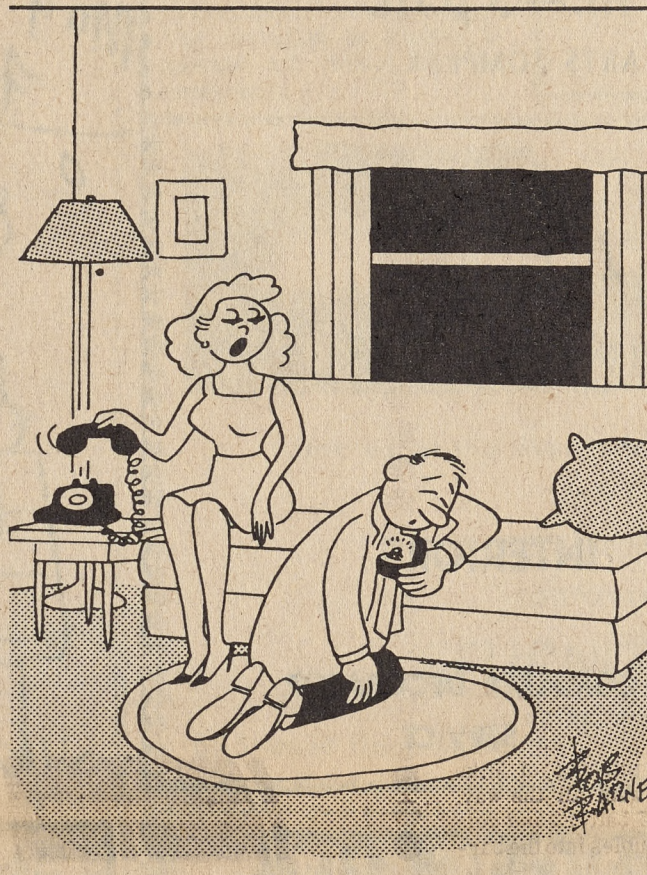

Editor's Note: Following are a few excerpts from the newsletter which Ariane sent to The Outlook. Ariane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brad Bowman of Laurel Drive.

"Up With People" is on a three-week tour of Panama. 55,000 Panamanians attended evening performances and eight Panama City Schools have seen the show put on by the 150 students from U.S. and 17 other countries.

President Max Delvalle and his wife received the Moral Re-Armament group at the Presidential Palace.

He told them, "Of all the events taking place since I have taken office, this is one I have enjoyed the most. You refresh me. After listening to you, I have a new clarity of mind."

The group's week in Panama City was climaxed with a Sunday television broadcast and then the cast left for a two-week tour of the interior.

"Now, Hubert... Where were we?"

A BEAUTIFUL SET of Encyclopedia Britannica, a total of 50 volumes, has just been donated to the Tularcitos School library by Mr. and Mrs. Herb Brownell. During the visit to the school recently by CV Kiwanis Club, Principal Bill Mallek said many thanks to Herb in behalf of the 471 students of Tularcitos.

CARMEL HIGH journalists are due for some fanfare, thanks to Mrs. Mari Dudley of Carmel Valley Road. A writer and public relations expert, she felt that the hard-working students who are responsible for the school's excellent newspaper, "The Sandpiper," deserve recognition.

As a result, a perpetual trophy will adorn the others in the high school hall and will be inscribed with names of three writers who turned out the best news story, feature story and editorial during this current school year. Judges will be Al Cook of The Pine Cone, Stan Cloud of The Advocate and Bill Norton of The Outlook. Awards will be made at a dinner June 5 for the journalism class, parents and journalism instructor, Walley LeValley.

A MAN who would like to persuade the younger generation to improve its manners is William D. Forbes, a retired Air Force lieutenant colonel, pilot and staff officer, who lives in Carmel Woods. He is promoting a mail order publication on good manners, contending that youngsters do care enough about making a good impression on boy or girl friends. He's in tune with the younger generation through his wife, Jane, who teaches first grade in Monterey, and their two teenagers, Bill, an 8th grader at Carmel Middle School and daughter Douglass, a sophomore at Carmel High.

After 23 years in the service, Forbes has a good tutor on mail-order know-how from a cousin with a successful mail order operation selling household curtains in Vermont.

ALL FOUR Tularcitos youngsters who entered the Tri-County Science Fair at Salinas won prizes. All were in the 4th-6th grade division.

Karen McCurry and Leslie Read both won first prizes, Sally Bennett won a third place and Regina Howland won a fourth spot.

Congratulations to the young scientists who also were top winners earlier at the school science fair.

GREG JANUSZ, a member of the trio which has played for a number of years in the summer company of White Oaks Theatre, has been playing with a traveling company of "Funny Girl" in Florida in addition to keeping up with his studies at the University of Miami.

Time running out to save Jacks Peak Trust area for public use

(The following letter to the board of supervisors, signed by three members of the Jacks Peak Trust, is of major significance to the Carmel-Carmel Valley area.)

Gentlemen:

Three years ago, a local family bought the 55 acres on the top of Jacks Peak, the highest point on the Monterey Peninsula. Its purpose was to preserve it in its natural state and for enjoyment by the public.

This land, which makes up a large part of the Monterey skyline, has a commanding view unmatched in the region. The purchasers put it into a trust, charging the trustees with the duty of attempting to bring about the acquisition of this site by a governmental or non-profit body pledged to preserve it for the public benefit, and to make the land part of a large skyline preserve.

The family which has carried the burden of ownership announced, when it created the Jacks Peak Trust, that it was willing to convey the land to an appropriate agency under proper conditions and at no profit. Among conditions are access by the public and preservation of surrounding critical areas in an undeveloped state.

Since that time, the probabilities of a recreation district or a large State park in the area, as called for by the Area Master Plan, have diminished. However, some interest has been shown recently by Monterey County and by other private owners in cooperating to preserve the Peak.

It was originally the intent of the family that the Jacks Peak Trust would either accomplish its purpose, or be dissolved within two years, and the two years have elapsed. Although the family recognizes that commercial development would be a tragic loss, a single family cannot be expected to carry the burden alone and forever. Therefore, the Jacks Peak Trust has been extended for another year. The period will be devoted to attempting to insure that at least the critical acreage on the top of the peak and surrounding areas along the ridge will be preserved and available to the public under proper conditions.

The trustees would make any arrangement which will accomplish this purpose—sale, lease, permanent dedication to specific uses, or co-ownership. They will work with any governmental unit and any private body or individual—including owners of adjacent and significant pieces of land—to attain the objectives. Their criteria are to protect the prime view sites and the skyline, to give the public access under reasonable conditions to enjoy this unique area, and to reimburse the owners for their actual costs.

The purpose of this letter is to invite proposals from any public agency (including Monterey County), private organization, or individuals to give them an opportunity to help achieve the purposes of the Jacks Peak Trust, and to emphasize that this priceless natural asset must be rescued now or may be lost forever.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Jensen of Garzas Road are proudly sharing the news with their friends that their son, Donald, has been accepted as a flight cadet and is undergoing the intensive 18-month Naval Air Training program at Pensacola, Fla.

Superior scores in his examinations enabled Cadet Jensen to enroll in the advanced training usually limited to young men with college credits. Enlisting in the Coast Guard upon graduation from Carmel High School three years ago, the Valleyite will return to the Coast Guard upon graduation from N.A.T. to serve as a pilot in air search and rescue.

CLOUD CELEBRATION

Michael and David Cloud, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Cloud, were guests of honor at luncheons recently honoring their nearby birthdates. David, who was three years old on the 19th, and his guests did not mind the rain, since all the party action was indoors at the Cloud home in Hitchcock Canyon. Mrs. Ed Long of Pacific Grove assisted Mrs. Cloud with the guests who were Jenny Kynch, Steven Klikovac, John F. Blatnik, Scottie Long and Dean Lake.

Invitations reading "April 30" were received by guests invited to celebrate Michael's fourth birthday. Mrs. Cloud was assisted during the afternoon by Mrs. Robert C. Jones. Making up the party list were Ross Naton, Sandy Klikovac, Mike Jones, Kevin Lake, and Kelly Blatnik.

TREVINO VISITOR

Dr. C.E. Parmenter of Chicago, Ill., is making his headquarters at the Blue Sky Lodge while enjoying an extended visit with Dr. and Mrs. S.N. Trevino. Their friendship began many years ago when the two men were colleagues on the faculty at the University of Chicago. Dr. Parmenter was formerly a professor of French and Spanish at the U. of C. He has been so enthusiastic about our Valley that the Trevinos are hoping to persuade him to become a full-time resident.

BRIDGE WINNERS

The Valley Bridge Club met Tuesday evening at the Community Center for an evening of duplicate bridge. Winners of tournament play were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Gravelle in first place, Bob Childers and

Col. (ret.) A.L. Friedenthal in second place and Mrs. Gertrude Bisnett and Mrs. Evelyn Childers in third place.

Players joined in celebrating the birth in Ankara, Turkey, of Miss Elizabeth Marie Morris, with her grandmother, Mrs. R.B. Stoney, who proudly announced the arrival by serving pink cake, and coffee. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Morris (she is the former Sue Stoney) are parents of the little girl who joins two brothers, Andrew and Ronald. The family have made Karamursel, Turkey, their home for two years where Bill is principal of a school for Air Force dependents. In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald B. Stoney of W. Carmel Valley Road, it was also the first granddaughter for Mr. and Mrs. George Morris of Parker, Ind.

FELDMAN EVENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Feldman of Aliso Road spent last week-end visiting friends in San Francisco. They returned in time for the May third celebration of their two-year-old son, Michael Lawrence.

GARDEN TOUR SALUTES

"An old oak leaf cluster" to the community spirit which was contributed toward the success of the Garden Tour. For one organization to sponsor a benefit for another organization such as the Carmel Valley Garden Association did for the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department is rare in itself, but friendly assistance did not end here.

Mary Laird, who had offered Joanne's Boutique as a ticket counter, became concerned when both the rain and the sale of tour tickets continued to fall. She decided that an attractive show window might call attention to the coming benefit so contacted the Carmel Valley Lions Club and their auxiliary, the Lionettes, who graciously loaned decorations from the Wine and Roses Ball. The week-end of the tour The Oleander Garden Shop loaned blooming potted plants to the Boutique window to further publicize the event.

In order to have an adequate corps of hostesses greeting the guests at each garden, aid of the wives of the Volunteer Firemen was enlisted. Assisting were Mmes. A.A. Collins, Boyd Danielson, Don Cummings, William Parham, Charles Gansel, Don Corona, Don Weber, George Palmer, Art Harber, John Woods, John Anderson, William Ijams, William Nelson, Erasmo Belleci and Lou Allaire. Wives assisting with ticket sales were Mrs. Laird, Mrs. Cummings and Mrs. Mark Hattan.

CARMEL VALLEY OUTLOOK

Shopper bus to start trial run between Carmel, P.G.

A special shoppers' bus, to run on Wednesdays between Pacific Grove and Carmel, will begin service on a trial basis next Wednesday, May 17.

A joint plan of the Pacific Grove Chamber of Commerce and the Carmel Businessmen's Association, the bus will definitely make trial runs on the next two Wednesdays, May 17 and 24; cost for these two days is being guaranteed by Canterbury Woods, although it is hoped that costs will be covered by 90¢ round-trip fares. Chairman of the committee handling the project is W.O. Stasik, administrator of Canterbury Woods.

If the two trial Wednesdays are successful, P.G. and Carmel merchants are expected to continue sponsorship of the project.

The bus accommodates 40 passengers. Tickets may be purchased in advance in Carmel at Carmel Foundation, Karens Kreations and Pernies.

It will make two round-trips daily, starting from New Monterey Neighborhood Center at 10:15 a.m., P.G. Senior Citizens Center at 10:20, Forest Hill Manor and Canterbury Woods at 10:30.

Stopping at Community Hospital, it will arrive in Carmel at 11, at Del Dono Court and the Carmel Foundation. It will then return to Pacific Grove.

For the afternoon return trip, the bus leaves Holman's Dept. Store at 4 p.m., arriving at Carmel at 4:30 and then heading back to P.G.

Councilman Blanks has concern for outlying community as well as incorporated Carmel Long-range planning for Carmel has been the interest of Councilman Herb Blanks, particularly since his seven years on the Planning Commission.

"It is all too easy for people to deal with the problems of today with expediency... while councils have to consider the political and economic factors they should also pay attention to the uninhibited thinking of their planning commissions."

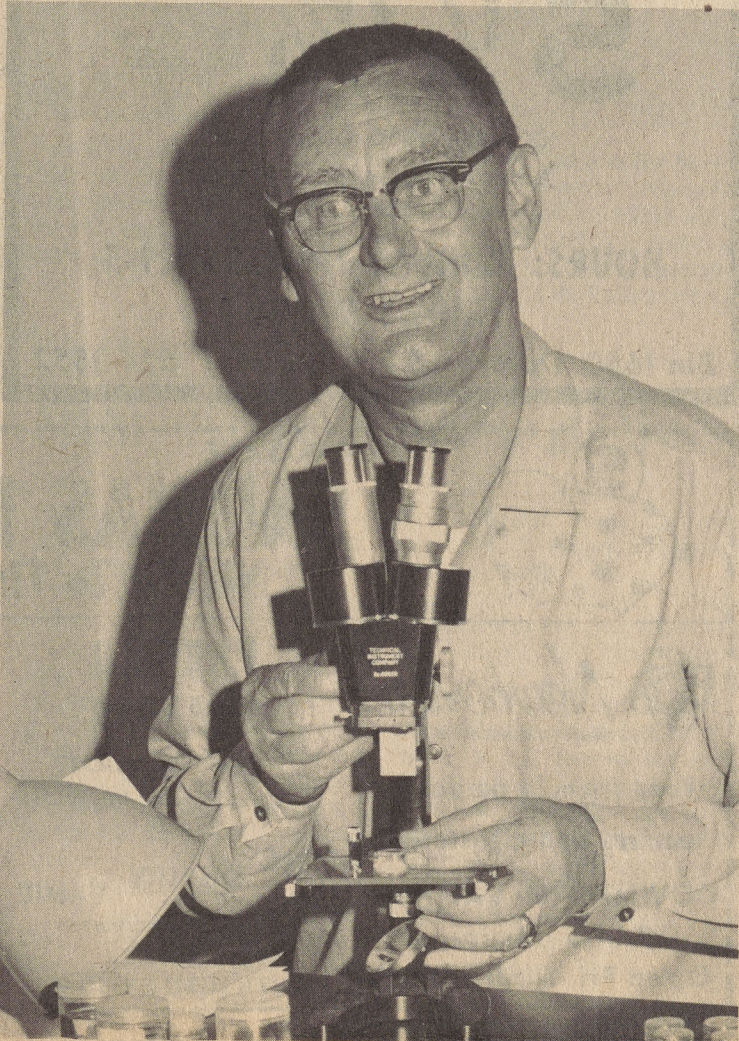

Herb feels he is anything but a reactionary and is perfectly aware that the economic health of the community cannot be overlooked. However, at the same time he feels that Carmel must be guided along paths which will preserve its intrinsic charm as much as possible.

Having spent much vacation-time in Carmel as a child (his family has owned property in the city since 1926), Herb has grown up with its basic intrinsic charm. His wife, Roxanne, is a native of sparsely populated southern Monterey County and her family, too, has been involved with the guidance and growth of the area since early days. Her father and Frank Porter were early developers of Carmel Valley and she has a roster of family names in Monterey and Pacific Grove public offices.

Prior to World War II, Herb was a ranger with the National Park Service in Sequoia and prior to that had been in the fire service after college. College was at UC-Berkeley with a major in forestry, so conservation and preservation come naturally to him.

The Blanks settled in Carmel in 1944 when he was in service. It had been their intention to retire here eventually, but they decided—"We love it so... why wait?"

Their three sons have grown up in the area... the oldest, George, is completing his Master's in Biology at San Jose State and his wife is getting her BA at the same time, as well as being parents of three girls. Herbert, Jr., is a lieutenant at Fort Benning, Ga., and Donald is also a student at San Jose State. With Roxanne a member of the school board for a number of years, the Blanks have been a vital part of Carmel life.

Herb feels that many of the advantages that Carmel enjoys are related directly to the business community. However, he is adamant that Carmel cannot be permitted to stagnate culturally. He is strongly in favor of the development of Sunset Center into a true community and cultural center.

"I do not think we can plan to utilize Sunset Center purely for the residents of the incorporated portions of Carmel. It will have to be developed for the larger environs of the community... the many people who consider themselves Carmelites, even though they don't pay taxes within the city limits. We cannot withdraw in insularity."

However, since the entire area is unified socially, economically and geographically, he does hope that the people in the surrounding areas will also weigh the advantages of political unification as well.

Serving his second term on the Carmel City Council, the former mayor appears to approach the problems with the same scientific eye he applies to his microscope at work at Ailing House... and he has the background of long association with the community along with his desire to keep it healthy as well as charming and attractive.

SALINAS CLUB MEETS

The La Rancheria home of Mrs. Irving Ollason was the setting for the final meeting Monday of the 1966-67 board of directors of the Salinas Women's Club. Guests who enjoyed their trip through the wildflowers to the luncheon were Miss Gertrude Waterman, and Mmes. Nelson Faulkner, John Gribaud, C.L. Crandall, Willard Farr, Roy A. Burgess, Chester Dudley, T.E. Pickinpaugh, Joseph Gambetta, and Warren M. Hawley.

Incidentally, anniversary congratulations are in order for the Ollasons who celebrated with dinner last Wednesday at Rocky Point. Joining Louella and Irving for the special occasion, their 33rd, were Julie and John Power.

MEYER

A warm Valley welcome to Mrs. Harry Meyer of Brentwood, Calif., who has rented a Blue Sky duplex, 21 Via Contenta, for several months to be near her daughter and son-in-law, Col. and Mrs. Adolph Friedenthal. SCIENCE SIGNERS Valleyites who signed the charter of the Youth Science Center Guild include Mrs. Blair McDonald, who will serve as vice president, and Mrs. Norman Bundgard. The Guild, who will man the Youth Science Center with their volunteer services, will also assist with the fund-raising program.

MAINE LOBSTER

Since Margaret Bennett was unable to celebrate her birthday in Maine, her parents, Dr. and Mrs. S.N. Trevino conspired with Neil De Vaughn to serve a Maine lobster (complete with claws!) from her former summer home, the Pine Tree State, recently at a dinner party in her honor on Cannery Row. Other dinner guests, Miss Esther Trevino, and Mr. and Mrs. A.A. Collins were present at the pre-dinner gathering at the Bennett home on Laurel Drive, which included Marge's six children, Ronnie, Elaine, Julie, Laurie, Susie and Greg, and her four nieces, Dorothy, Kathy, Tricia and Sharon.

BLATNIK BIRTHDAY

Clowns decorating a pink birthday cake were admired by guests invited to enjoy an afternoon of play and the party refreshments with their hostess, Kelly Blatnik, last week when she became five years old. Kelly entertained at the Hitchcock Canyon home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blatnik. Mrs. John Anderson assisted Patti with the festivities. Attending were Mary Beth Erskine, Rodney and Chris Anderson, Michael and David Cloud, Sandy Klikovac, Kevin Lake, and Kelly's brother, "J.F." Blatnik.

At the galleries...

LOFTON PORTRAITS

Portraits, by the late RICHARD LOFTON, of artists who were also his good friends, fill the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art gallery with excitement this month.

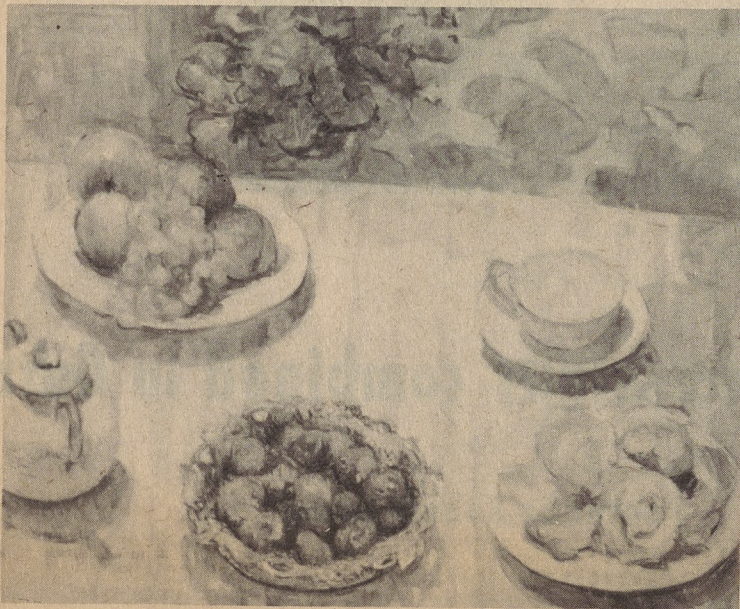

The roster includes larger-than-life impressions of Clarence Bates, Pat Carey, Virginia Conroy, Gus Arriola, Ephriam Doner, Robert Davey, Paco Ferro, Fred Klepich, Gene McComas, Arch Garner, Richard Rodriguez, Myron Oliver, Feg Murray, Bob Nelson and Eldon Dedini, as well as portraits of Nancy, Missy and Nancy Lofton.

Hung for the first time in the Gallery is "South Carolina Low Country" which was acquired for M.P.M.A.'s permanent collection from the artist.

LAKY

Recent paintings by MONTE' (William Monte' Anderson) may be seen at the Laky Galleries, Ltd., May 13 through 28.

STRAWBERRIES is one of the paintings in the one-man show of Ruth Munson at Zantman Galleries this month. The artist is an impressionist who always paints from life... indoors or out... landscapes, still life and portraits.

TOWN HOUSE

Paintings by GAEL BALDOCK are on exhibit this month at The Carmel Foundation's Town House at Lincoln and 8th.

Born in Eureka, Calif., Baddock studied for two years in South America after attending the Valley College of San Bernardino. Later he studied at the Chicago School of Interior Decoration and has been working in that field for the past four years. With a shop in Carmel Valley, the Decorative Arts Studio, he is also on the staff of Rudolph's in Monterey.

THREE MEMBERS of the San Diego Ballet Company—Deborah Hadley, James Heaverlo and Kitty Vallacher—perform in "A La Francaix," one of the program numbers scheduled for the troupe's May 14 appearance at Sunset Center Auditorium. The event is sponsored by Monterey Peninsula College. Tickets may be purchased at the college or at Abinante's, Monterey, or Central Box Office, Carmel.

BIG SUR ARTS

SUSAN SANTOG of Creative Arts of Big Sur left last week on a six-week trip to New York to find cross-country outlets for the work of Big Sur artists and craftsmen. In her absence Sara Reamer Elber and Avis Ballard are in charge of the shop in Vandervoort, off San Carlos.

JOHN LA PIERRE

An exciting collection of collages fills the Beardsley Room at Carmel Art Association galleries during May. They are the work of John La Pierre who uses torn paper and paste to great effect in interpreting a recent stay in Mexico, mainly San Miguel de Allende.

His work is bold and bright but with a delicacy of detail and depth of perception that is unusual in this medium.

HELEN DOOLEY

Helen B. Dooley has received a commission to paint a group of ten oils to be hung in the new administration building of the University of the Pacific in Stockton.

The Carmel and Stockton artist, who has her own gallery at San Carlos between 5th and 6th, is on leave from U. of P. where she is professor of art.

Miss Dooley is now conducting a series of drawing classes Saturday mornings at various locations.

Play review

Light, risque comedy at Studio

Through no fault of the actors, most of the second act and one of the minor characters in Carolyn Green's play "Janus" could be eliminated.

There are many hilarious lines and situations, but much too much time is spent in Act II with explanation, and apologizing the situation between husband and wife. The audience becomes as frustrated as the husband at the end of a too-long portion. It could have been done with a short scene.

Also one of the stock, typed characters, the literary agent, Miss Addy, could have been left out completely without requiring any plot change.

As we said...this is no criticism of the actors at the Studio Theatre's opening of the comedy...the play's the thing...and this one drags in the middle.

Anita Tonn as Jessica, Dick Vreeland as Denny, her collaborator in writing AND summer romance, and Bob Lotz as Gil, her husband, were a good team. Each interpreted his role well, and kept to it. The situation of hot New York summer, a dumb waiter, through which Denny makes the secret trips between his pad upstairs and Jessica's apartment below, and the sudden appearance of her husband, who knows nothing of the seven-year summer arrangement between his wife and Denny, is light, occasionally risqué, and brings many a laugh.

Jessica points out, "Being unfaithful has some compensating factors, but lying doesn't have any." And the story has many compensating factors, particularly the character vignette of the leering tax man, Mr. Harper, played by Ed Shimbrot. He is delightful and we're sorry he was not there at curtain call for a healthy round of applause. The part of Miss Addy, played by Emma Jane Hansen, we felt, was overacted. However, this is the role which the author could have left out. In Act III, after the lengthy second act, she prolongs the denouement far too long. Granted she is a type, but as a minor role, it's overpowering and detracts from the timing and relationships of the major characters.

The set by Bob Evans Jr. is another masterpiece of stagecraft on a tiny stage.

Don't be kept away...Michael Keller's direction is sensitive and the situation hilarious. The production far overcomes any weak points of the play itself by having competent and well-casted actors...and a fast pace through most of the production.

THE RESTAURANT has a set menu of roast beef, corned beef or ham, kept hot in the big copper pans. Guests are escorted to their tables, served salad and then they return to choose their entrees which Chef Walter Jones cuts for them...rare...medium...how do you like it?

RUTH MARION McELROY usually does one or two plays a year for the Studio Theatre. Long an actress, both professionally and in Peninsula theatres, Ruth cannot long resist "the smell of greasepaint." Back-

Carmel theatre has a varied history

The Studio Theatre and Restaurant in Carmel has had a long and varied career. In the early thirties it was headquarters for the Denny-Watrous productions before California's First Theatre in Monterey was used. Ruth McElroy, who just finished playing a run of "Arsenic and Old Lace" at the Studio recalls playing in "The Drunkard" there in 1931 or '32. It was at one time a dance studio, portrait studio and gallery, telegraphic office, and the printing shop of the Carmel Pine Cone.

Prior to its present owners, Bob and Judy Evans, the Studio Theatre was the playhouse of Betty Hackett Martin and her son-in-law, Dwight Doerr.

Jerry de Bono and Chris Berry are names familiar to those who were in Carmel from 1957 to 1962. Many will remember the hilarious summer reviews presented at that time at the Studio. Jerry's originality made the rafters ring. He has been able to crack the hard southern California nut and is successful in show business down there.

About four years ago, the theatre applied for a restaurant license and beer-wine permit which caused many a long discussion at city council meetings. In the end, the food license was granted, but not the liquor permit.

From that time on, however, the Studio became a "theatre-restaurant," serving dinners prior to the evening's show, with the patrons remaining at their tables for the production.

Just about a year ago, Bob Evans, Sr., his wife Judy, his son, Bob Jr. and his wife, Carolyn, bought the Studio Theatre from Betty Hackett Martin.

Bob says it was a natural. He and Judy had been active in little theatre in Monroe, La., and both his son and daughter-in-law had majored in drama in college. They had also vacationed in Carmel, were familiar with the theatre and knew that it was available. So, when Bob retired from business, they decided to pool the family talents and combine their efforts in the Studio Theatre.

Bob Jr. is also an instructor in stagecraft at MPC and his wife Carolyn is employed at KIDD radio. Carolyn recently appeared at the theatre in "Catch Me If You Can," the mystery comedy.

The theatre is small in stage area as well as seating capacity which adapts it well as a theatre-restaurant. Seating about 60 for dinner, there are an additional 30 seats for those who only wish to view the show.

Space backstage has always been limited. Actors must go outside through one door and in through another in order to go from one side of the stage to the other. One modernization which the Evans installed was a concrete walkway, making it easier for the cast to make hurried exits and entrances.

Since the kitchen is also tiny, the menu has always been a limited one, making it possible to serve a number of people on the three specialties. At lunch, an entree for the day is added.

The Studio has drawn on the unlimited talent of the Peninsula for casts, utilizing those who have been active in little theatre for years as well as drawing from the military installations.

With summer approaching, they will return to the vacation schedule of producing two musicals which will be presented on alternating weeks. This season the fare will be "Little Mary Sunshine" and "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," brought back by popular request. The winter season is concluding with "Janus," which opened last weekend.

The tiny Studio Theatre-Restaurant is hidden away through a narrow doorway on Dolores Street, between Ocean and Seventh, but it is well worth the playgoer's time to seek it out.

The Rhyming Philosopher

It's just about time now the rains have all gone,
The sun brings stranger afflictions than weeds,
Like this long hibernated phenomenon
In his tall white cap and his flamboyant deeds.
Yes, it's dear old Dad at the barbecue pit
With his long steel fork and his six-pack of beer
Which dulls his perspective but spices his wit
When neighbors assemble to join in the cheer.
His hamburger patties feed grease to the flames,
He's roasting the corn 'til it's blackened and tough,
And posing for snapshots by simpering dames.
But that's our dear Father just strutting his stuff.
But no one objects if that's what he wishes
If only just once he'd help with the dishes.

Since Father imagines he's big deal — all heart.
But Mother works harder with salad and cake
And getting things ready so Dad looks the part.
If Mother's Day means just a neighborhood feast, Invite her to join in the party, at least.

Honeymooners get rare Valley welcome

If Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thomas are ever asked in a television interview if anything out of the ordinary happened to them on their honeymoon, they can truthfully relate that they nearly spent it in the Monterey County jail for housebreaking in Carmel Valley!

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Todd drove to Norwalk to attend the wedding of Ora's favorite niece, Judy Pfeuffer, leaving their home in the care of neighbors. At the wedding reception, Judy and Joe confided to the Todds that they were slipping away to the Peninsula for their wedding trip and were presented with the key to the Todd's attractive guest cottage.

At 5 a.m. the following morning, a neighbor, noting a suspicious car in the Todd carport was torn between calling the sheriff or an Aliso Road council of war!

Deciding upon the latter, representatives moments later were pounding at the door of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thomas. After the confusion, identification, tempers and laughter had all subsided, the newly married Thomases enjoyed a wonderful honeymoon in Carmel Valley.

Garden Thoughts

by Salih Mehdy

An evergreen tree came to us from Australia looking for a new home, and found it in California. This is the "Carrot Wood" (cunaniopsis anacardiodes). The leaves resemble those of the carob tree, but are a little larger, and the branches are more open. It is a hardy tree and is adaptable to adverse soil and water conditions. It can also take the salt wind near the coast. Another plant, mentioned in the last article as standing salty air, was misspelled; the correct name is "Lagunariapateroni."

This kind of damp weather is heaven for snails and slugs. Vegetation is abundant and that means a population explosion. Try to bait them in order to halt this invasion. A snail's speed was checked and found to be about 2-3 inches per minute. Thank goodness it is not any faster! Our snails are hermaphrodite, which means each one is male and female; so you see each one will lay eggs into the soil. It is a shame that we cannot train them to eat weeds only.

FUSCHIA CARE

Fuchsias which were fed and pruned are putting out new growth now. To have a nice bushy plant means pinching the tips of the new growth. This forces the lower dormant buds to grow, and you will avoid having a leggy plant. Examine the undersides of the leaves for aphids, whitefly, and red spider. Infected leaves turn yellow and fall, and this weakens the plant. Overhead water, spraying both sides of the leaves, discourages these pests. Plants, especially in containers and hanging baskets, should be fed every two weeks. Fish emulsion is very good for this.

When a child is looking up to you, smiling, and you long to hug him, you put your hands under his shoulders and lift him up to you. You would never dream of lifting him from his ears or head, because that would cause pain. Plants take the pain inflicted upon them in a silent way and thus do not stir our emotions. When you take a plant home in a gallon can which has been slit down the sides, pull the two halves of the can apart. Then put both hands underneath the root ball and lift it up to take it to the prepared hole. Wear gloves or be very careful; the can where it is slit is as sharp as a knife. Never lift the plant from the can by grabbing it from its stem. You might hurt many of its roots. Some plants are more sensitive than others.

SENSITIVE ROOTS

Camellias are an example of being sensitive to root damage; their roots might be damaged or severed from the crown. The planting hole for a camellia, in a loamy soil, should be twice the diameter of the root ball and about 2 to 3 inches shallower than its depth. In a heavy clay soil, dig a hole three or more times in diameter and about half as deep as the thickness of the ball. Set the root ball in the middle and fill in with 1/3 leaf mold, 1/3 peat moss, and 1/3 loamy soil. Mulch the exposed part of the root ball with leaf mold. The reason for planting the root ball higher than the original surface is to compensate for future settling of the ball.

Some of your established camellias are through blooming. Fertilize them with cottonseed meal about three times, spaced 4-5 weeks apart. There is no fear of burning the roots as with chemical fertilizers.

DICHONDRA TIME

Springtime is a good time to plant dichondra seed. You may plant them in summer, but then you have to water more to keep the soil moist for the seed to germinate. Two pounds of seed per 1000 sq. feet gives you a good coverage in a short time (about 5 weeks). Preparing the area for seeding is very important for the future health of your dichondra lawn. It is something that cannot be done after seeding. Four-five bales of peat moss or its equivalent in other soil amendments should be spread evenly over the area (1000 sq. feet). Spread over this about two bags of Milorganite (100 lbs.). Rototill this mixture into your soil. At this stage discard rocks and weed clumps from the bed. Level the bed and spread the seeds with a spreader. Rake the soil gently so seeds come in contact with soil. Roll the area with an empty roller. Water it if there is no rain.

ED LESLIE, driving a Lotus for Ernie Gravelle, came in 4th in the under two-liter class at Sunday's USSRC championships at Laguna Seca, bringing home prize money of $300. Lothar Motschenbacher came in first over-all after steady, but conservative driving, to win a purse of $3,100 after Mark Donahue, who had paced first all the way, had to make two pit stops for gas. Donahue finished third, with Mike Goth taking second.

Carmel varsity nine misses tie

The Padre varsity nine barely missed tying San Lorenzo Valley High at Felton Friday, dropping the game 1-2. Ben Artellan did a first-rate pitching job for Carmel, giving up 2 on 4 hits.

With Lee Mark on the mound, the JV tied 3-3.

Last Wednesday, Carmel's varsity lost 7-1 to tough Live Oak, but the local JV's came through with an extra-inning victory of 6-5.

Middle 9 wins in final inning

Carmel Middle School 8A baseball team came through in the last half of the final inning Saturday against Los Arboles to win 4-3.

Hans Smith came up to hit a triple, tying the game 3-3. Then Ricky Hall hit a long fly ball to center field, to bring Smith home for victory.

Others credited by Coach Ralph Blumenthal as playing outstanding ball were Craig Dickenson, Jim Conlan, Jim Baker, Kevin Cunningham, Chris Foley and Dave Eagling.

Padre netters are doubles champs

Carmel High took the championship in doubles in the MTA League tennis championship competition at Hollister Saturday.

Victors for the Padres were Gary Newton and Jim Buzaid, who beat Pacific Grove's Doug Smith and Burt Hohde 7-5, 3-6, 6-4 and Hollister's Randy Soden and Louis Ayala 6-0 and 6-2 in the finals.

In singles Carmel's Jim Hinwood downed Jeff Weller of Hollister 6-4, 7-5, but lost the finals to Paul Sidone of Pacific Grove.

Carmel dumped Gilroy 6-2 in a League contest last Thursday, giving the Padres 4 wins to 1 loss in the League.

Track squads get set for League meet

Carmel High track squads are preparing for the Mission Trail Athletic League meet this Saturday at Pacific Grove.

The League consolation meet, for boys who don't qualify for the Saturday competition, will be held Thursday at Gilroy.

The Padre varsity has won seven of its dual, League meets, dropping only one, to King City.

Carmel's varsity downed Live Oak Friday 77-54. The Padres last week Monday edged Pacific Grove 65-57.

For Carmel varsity, Gary Kelley flung the discus 150 feet to remain undefeated in the league. A 6'3" sophomore, Kelley in the opinion of Coach Walther "is going to be state meet caliber in a year or so."

Other standouts for the Padres included Kim Schaurer who won the mile in 4:40.2, Kevin Percival who won the two-mile in 10:23, scoring the second best League time for the year (next to Schaurer's first), Ty Seeders who took both high jump at 5'10" and long jump in 22'11", Cedric Welden who won the 100 in 10.3 and John Jensen who was first in the 440 in 53.

The Padre relay team won in the excellent time of 1:35. Running were Gregg Bullard, Rick Drobek, John Jensen and Cedric Welden.

Diver Bob Horn qualifies for Central Coast swimming finals

Bob Horn, Carmel High's ace diving star, qualified at the regional meet at Cabrillo College Saturday to go on to compete in the Central Coast Swimming finals at Foothill College, Los Altos Hills, this Friday and Saturday.

Horn, a freshman lightweight diver, placed 4th in the regional competition involving 18 schools. They were from three different leagues, including the local MTA League, Monterey Bay League and the Santa Clara County League.

Horn was the lone Padre representative in the regional meet. He lives in Rancho Canada, Carmel Valley.
